Jeremy writes...

“Back to School” sales are on in the supermarkets as parents, preparing for the first time or realising that last year’s kit no longer fits, equip their youngsters for another year of formal education. Personally, as a dad, it felt very strange when we reached the end of that annual ritual as our children, now young adults, moved on. So, as a seasoned pro, I realise that as soon as the “Back to School” area of the shops is cleared all the Christmas junk will begin to appear. Only another hundred-and-so shopping days to Christmas!

Between now and Christmas Church life tends to get busy: there’s Harvest, All Souls, Remembrance, and then of course Advent and Christmas itself. Plenty to do, plenty to plan. But, what will it be like this year? With congregational singing banned will “Nine Lessons and Carols” become “Nine Lessons Read by Carol”? Honestly, I don’t know.

What I do know about the Autumn is that there will be celebration: Farm workers instinctively celebrated the gathering of the harvest long before there were Harvest Festivals. Individuals and families naturally remembered loved ones who had gone before prior to the formalisation of All Souls Services. Communities laid aside the pomp and circumstance and glory of empire to remember the real price of war way before our cenotaphs were built. And, the welcoming of a child into the world with wonder and awe has been repeated billions of times before and after the first Christmas. Celebration, thankfulness, remembrance are all natural human responses to the great and dreadful events of life. They are part of the continual change in us in response to life-changing events.

This year we will celebrate, be thankful and remember. It may not be quite like last year, but then why should it be? But we can ensure it will be every bit as right, poignant and meaningful.

This year will eventually fade into individual and collective memory. “Do you remember 2020?” will one day be the phrase repeatedly offered, and of course we will. This year we may well have felt powerless to effect something far bigger than us. What we will allow the experience of this time to change in us and remain with us is far more important. Will we continue to have a stronger sense of community identity? Will we allow ourselves to keep a more watchful eye out for those amongst us who are vulnerable and needy? Will we share a collective responsibility to challenge those behaviours that threaten our community’s well-being? Will we become more tolerant of those who flee lands where the sufferings and deprivations we have known in 2020 would be regarded as light relief. I wonder.

An individual, a community, a nation, that does not remember is one that is foolish and one that is doomed to repeat its mistakes all too soon. So, this Autumn, we will celebrate, we will be thankful, and we will remember. And you will be welcome to join us in this.

Best wishes,

Jeremy

EDITOR'S INDULGENCE -- occasionally, space permitting, I would like to share items I have found. This is one such occasion and one such item. It is, I think, a thought provoking account of the complex interactions between climate change, COVID-19, employment, and communities in our modern world. The article instances Pakistan but the implications are wider ranging...

The mango and food security

Pakistan's response to COVID and its broader implications

29 June 2020, by Saher Hasnain

Hunger pandemic. Poverty tsunami. 500 million people nudged into poverty. 300,000 dying daily of starvation for the next three months. Dealing with the reality behind these headlines is massively complex, but the brute fact is that they predate the pandemic. COVID-19 has made it all worse.

How do we broaden our horizons and look far enough ahead to ensure that our responses to the present crisis don't hamstring us down the line? It is too easy right now to narrow our horizons at the expense of lucid thinking and sensible action.

Allow me to connect some big problems by presenting the King of Fruits. The Pakistani mango is a bright and wonderful presence in our exquisitely blistering summers. It is an entirely different beast when compared to those mangoes one occasionally finds lurking in British supermarkets. With over 1,500 varieties, of which at least 30 are grown commercially, the mango is an important element in a Pakistani summer. The vivid fruit weigh down produce stalls and brighten up food markets.

One does not simply eat a mango. One surrenders to it.

The mango and many other fruits and vegetables are threatened by COVID-19. Mangoes cannot be stored for long, and time is running out to harvest and ship this year's crop.

Nearly two million tonnes of Pakistani mangoes are typically shipped annually to over 50 countries, but in 2020 it may not happen.

Conflicting COVID policies now mean that laborers cannot travel, transporters cannot operate, food prices are low, the harvest is at risk and food producers suffer. Pakistan is one of the many countries projected to face severe food insecurity as a result of COVID-19.

In so many other ways the crisis was already well underway because of the rapidly creeping spectre of climate change. Fruit crops are falling prey to extreme weather events, shifts in temperature and rainfall, and ravenous pests. These maladies have a crushing impact on the wellbeing of ordinary citizens. At least half the country's households face food security stress of some form. Almost 40% of children under-5 are stunted. The situation is dire now for millions of vulnerable people. It will get worse.

Why would any of this matter to those not from the region? Let us explore this complex question through pathways for change.

Pakistan, under the leadership of Prime Minister Imran Khan, has already implemented an unusual measure to cope with the costs of the crisis. The unemployed are earning money through the 10 Billion Tree Tsunami project. This is a government initiative to reforest parts of the country, begun in 2014. Now expanded, it's an attempt to alleviate COVID hardship but not forget climate change.

Pakistan is the fifth most vulnerable country in the world for climate change. Besides the catastrophic environmental, social, and economic costs, it is climate change's impacts that spell a death knell for the fruit and vegetable sector which supports millions of people in the country.

Agri-food reforms are firmly on the menu too. The Ehsaas poverty alleviation program has helped over 12 million families by providing emergency cash assistance to those affected by the lockdown. Barriers to financial inclusion and empowerment are also being removed by improvements to mobile and internet banking. The critical factor now will be to continue developing the necessary institutional and policy support to ensure that these programs can function as long-term social and financial safety nets for the most vulnerable of our population.

There is great room for innovation and optimism right now. It is easy to imagine the end of the world as we know it but let us make room for imagination. Let us now imagine biting into a wonderfully succulent mango. The fruit is joy and happiness, but is sometimes measured also in messiness. Humans are resilient. We will get through this to a new normal. Let us ensure that we don't leave behind a great swathe of the population.

For her doctoral research at Oxford, she examined the influence of factors like energy system disruption, urban design, and regional and global food system transformation on food environments in urban Pakistan.

BEER WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

WI Report August 2020

After several successful Zoom meetings we were indebted to the Beer Albion Football Club Management who enabled us to hold a socially distanced cluster meeting on the football ground.

The sun shone and eighteen members came with good spirits, picnics and chairs and rugs to enjoy seeing each other and catch up on news.

Alison King, our Treasurer, unveiled her completely shorn head, a charity shave which has raised several hundred pounds for MacMillan Nurses. Penny Stopher is continuing to make money from her “drive” sales for the Seaton Nurses at Home and Ann Robinson, Wendy Egerton, Dee Spence-Thomas and former member Pauline Proctor are still making bags and making and selling masks, again raising phenomenal amounts for charity. Well done to all who have helped the community.

Upcoming Autumn events such as our group meeting and annual quiz have unfortunately been cancelled due to the on-going, uncertain Covid restrictions and we are debating the fate of this year's Over 65s Christmas Meal which may also have to take a different form in 2020. We will let you know more on this next month.

Weather permitting, we hope to hold another outdoor meeting at the beginning of September, then depending on progress with hall openings and permitted numbers we may be able to meet inside or return to ZOOM meetings. Our Book Club and Writing Group have been able to hold several get-togethers outside, courtesy of Isabella Baldwin who has a large, fairly flat expanse of lawn.

If you wish to have contact with us or would like to know more about our group, please contact our President, Jackie Goddard, tel 01297 21864 or email, jackiegod@live.com

Fine Foundation Centre

Beer Village Heritage

Reg. Charity No.1087162

The Trustees of Beer Village Heritage have reluctantly decided not to open the Fine Foundation Centre this year. They felt that, as it is unmanned, they could not be confident that any mitigating measures which they identified would be followed. The Bomb Shelter is open on Sundays, with opening hours matching those of Jimmy Green's shop.

It seems impossible that we are nearing the end of the school holidays. Hopefully the youngsters have responded to our challenge to describe their experience of being on the beach. We're looking forward to seeing their contributions. The new I-Spy, at the top of the beach, is now on the website, so do encourage your visitors to have a go. You might like to try it as well – it's surprising how easy it is to miss details on familiar objects.

The Bat Friendly Beer group plans to meet in September, probably as an on-line session. September is Bat Month, and the group is involved with some of the initiatives. You can join Kate and Norah for "Chats about Bats" on Tuesday 15th September from 1800 – 1900 by booking via <https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/117621281419>. The culmination of the Greater Horseshoe Bat Project is being celebrated with a conference. This was originally planned for May, but for obvious reasons it was moved to September, and will now be an on-line event over Thursday 17th and Friday 18th September. You can book a place by going to: <http://devonbatproject.org/bat-project-conference/>. Alternatively have a look at: <http://devonbatproject.org/events/> where you can find out about other batty events during the Bat Festival. In the meantime if you'd like to find out more about the bats which you'll see in your garden in the evenings at the moment, go to <http://devonbatproject.org/devon-bat-survey/> for information about borrowing a detector.

The Jurassic Coast Trust has launched their Jurassic Coast Collection 'Big Five' with the objective of finding out which prehistoric creature is the favourite. Go onto the Jurassic Coast Trust website to register your votes. The first category is Marine Predators. Everyone taking part will have the chance to win a beautifully presented "sea bed" fossil. So, do have a go.

Last month we reported on various attractions in the area, and can now add the Thelma Hulbert Gallery, in Honiton, and the West Bay Discovery Centre to the 'open' list. All of the local museums, including Bridport, are closed at the moment.

So, there are lots of attractions available in the area. If you'd like to explore the area on foot, why not use the walks described on our website beervillageheritage@yahoo.co.uk. All of them can be downloaded. Mike Green's latest book, talking about the coast of East Devon, is also on the website. Enjoy the I-Spy!

The litter-pickers are still outside the centre and available for you to borrow. The new recycling bins which EDDC put in place at the beginning of the season have hopefully helped to keep the beach litter-free. Thank you to all of you who "do your bit" on a regular basis.

Ruth is continuing to add to the "Blow-ins" folder, so do send your thoughts to her at: ruthtoohoots@gmail.com. Richard Scott is asking for stories about the village and the inhabitants for his Tales of Old Beer project. You can send your contributions to him on: rscottbeer@outlook.com.

The crisp packet collection is back in operation so do make use of the collection bag outside of the centre. Many thanks to Ruth and Wendy for keeping this service going. If your cat has food from pouches, these can be re-cycled at Wagg N Purr, Unit 2, Dolphin Street, Colyton which is open at weekends.

Keep well.

If you'd like to know more, just ask one of our regular helpers such as Nick Jones, Mike Green, Chris Jones, Carol Green, Trevor Wood, Jean Wood, Henry or Norah Jagers, or contact us on 01297 20858 or at beervillageheritage@yahoo.co.uk

DEVON GREATER HORSESHOE BAT PROJECT

SEPTEMBER IS BAT MONTH !

While the centre remains closed between now and the start of the 2021 season, Beer Village Heritage is using this as an opportunity to upgrade the displays and undertake significant repairs to the building.

Seaton Beer and District Branch RNLI

Since March due to the Covid-19 restrictions Seaton Beer and District Branch have not held or been to any events, or held collections, plus our lovely Shop at Jubilee Gardens, Beer, has been closed. We greatly missed our regular RNLI Mayday Welly Walk and our Beer Lifeboat Week this year including our 15th Annual Duck Race Day and are now planning them for July 2021. We will advise in due course when our Shop will be opening again but we are now able to service collection boxes and do a limited amount of fundraising. We will be resuming a revised programme as soon as possible.

On Sunday 2nd August it was great to have our Chairman John, Vice-Chairman Shirley and Committee Member Adrian in my parking space at 3 Belmont Terrace, Causeway on the day of the Beer Sale Trail. We had Covid-19 safety measures in place including lots of hand sanitizer and surface cleaner. We raised £51.60 from our Card Tombola and donations. Our Knitted Blanket raffle is ongoing. Weather permitting, we will be out with our stall during the next Beer Sale Trail on Sunday 6th September.

We hope to do a Welly Walk in the future plus have our Annual Autumn Sponsored Walk on Sunday 18th October. This year son Alastair has chosen one of his favourite sponsored walks and we will be starting at the road junction of the Honiton to Blackberry Camp road and walking via Colyton to Seaton. The walk can be socially distanced and people can also walk on a date suitable for them. Funds can be donated by sponsorship, giving donations or through Justgiving.com and further details will be available nearer the time.

Best wishes to everyone from,

Wendy Cummins, Secretary and all at Seaton Beer and District Branch RNLI.

Beer Parish News

Please remember St. Michael's Bookshop and donate us your best books and DVDs so that others can experience some of the pleasures you have enjoyed during lock-down.

St. Michael's Bookshop

VARIED SELECTION of secondhand books

at our bookstall in St Michael's

After lock-down

^ Please bring us any books and DVDs which you wish to donate.

GOOD paper backs and good small hard back books only please! - No Readers Digest volumes, no large hard backs, and no magazines as we do not have room to store them.

Unfortunately the church is closed for book sales at the moment BUT our Church Warden, Gayle Chapple, is happy to receive donations either at her home or any Wednesday morning in church between 10 and 12 noon when she is usually there stewarding - and if it's not her there'll be someone else. Book sales are a very valuable source of income for us, which we're obviously missing at the moment, but hope we may be allowed to resume sales before too long.

Thank you !
